Objects Of The Farmer Union

The following is a letter to the editor of "The Alberta Farmer," and is published by request.

Editor, Alberta Farmer:

Since I am receiving numerous letters, almost daily asking why I am organizing for the Farmers' Union of Canada after having served for years on the executive board of the U.F.A., I wish to make plain to all farmers my position.

Since our marketing plan is presumed to enhance the general prosperity of the three provinces, the need on an interprovincial organization seems obvious to me if democratic control of the pool is to be maintained. To emphasize this point it will be remembered that the rejection of 1921 tentative wheat pool plan was due to divergence of views on the part of our leaders. There was a division among the provinces. Again the same thing occurred in connection with the federal compulsory wheat board plan. We have witnessed, time and time again, one brand of salve offered in one province and another in another, in every instance quack remedies. The natural outgrowth of this situation was the birth of the Farmers' Union of Canada, formed within the past three years, which now has over 600 locals in Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba and new locals being formed in these three provinces every day. Why? Because farmers are coming to see the need of interprovincial organization back of an interprovincial federated pool—this in order that even influence may be obtained in preserving democratic control which will prove to be

Concert Given By Pupils A Success

The concert put on by the Junior Red Cross in aid of the Children's Red Cross Hospital, was a very successful event. The hall was very tastefully decorated with black and gold streamers, and festoons, pumpkins, black cats and other All Hallowe'en emblems.

The program was well rendered, the young artists all doing their best in their respective parts.

Great credit is due to the teachers and to Mrs. Freeman and Mrs. McNutt, who spent much time and care in training the children to the degree of excellence which they reached. Mrs. McNutt acted as pianist at the concert.

PROGRAM

The opening number of the program was a song "Lullaby" by the school followed by:

Recitation by Gregory Mc Cluskey,

Witches Drill by

Dialogue "Taking the census" Sketch by four girls.

Recitation by Bernice Paquette

Ghost Drill by 7 boys.

Recitation by Ruth Parcels

Mock Trial "Mrs. O. Mafferty and Tin Tung."

Piano solo by Ruth Parcels

Recitation by Marjorie Folkins

Piano Trio Ethel Code, Ruth

Parcels and Ronie Forryan

Song by Mr. Cubitt

The final item on the program was a minstrel show consisting of songs, recitations, jokes, dances, sketches etc., and closing with a full chorus "Carry me back to Old Virginia."

The concert was closed with the singing of "God Save the King"

Janet Sutherland and Douglas

McKechnie acted in the capacity of heralds, being daintily dressed in black and gold.

THIS SEASON'S TRANS-CANADA MILEAGE EQUALLED THREE TRIPS TO THE MOON

The Trans-Canada Limited, the crack transcontinental express of the Canadian Pacific Railway, operated from May to September, completed its 1924 schedule on September 13th, when its last trains started and on September 17th these trains steamed into the termini at Montreal and Vancouver, bringing to a close one of the service's most successful seasons. The train covers 2,886 miles of its run between the two cities in 90 hours and its Toronto-Vancouver run of 2,707 miles in 36 hours.

Mr. C. B. Foster, Passenger Traffic Manager, summing up the season's performance, gave out some remarkably interesting figures which afford a partial insight into the magnitude of the task of maintaining such a service. The Trans-Canada Limited began its runs this year on May 18th, and before being discontinued made 119 trips in each direction, or 238 in all. The equipment of the train is limited to one baggage, one dining car, four standard sleepers, one 10-compartment car Vancouver to Montreal, and one 10-compartment car Toronto to Winnipeg, with a drawing room-3-compartment observation sleeper Montreal to Vancouver, plus a local sleeper on the west-bound movement only from Fort William to Winnipeg. Thus the maximum accommodation available in each direction between the East and Winnipeg is forty-eight sections, twenty-three compartments and five drawing rooms, while between Winnipeg and the Coast there are forty-eight sections, thirteen compartments and five drawing rooms. The average number of passengers on the train at night varies from seventy-five to 110 on different sections of the line, but for the 119 days the train was in service last season there was a one-night use of approximately 100,000 berths. The east-bound and west-bound trains together covered 6,292 miles every day, which includes the distance between Montreal and Vancouver, 2,886 miles, and between Toronto and Sudbury, 260 miles, covered by each train and its Toronto-Sudbury connection. Thus the season's mileage was 758,748 for the 238 trips, or three times the distance from the earth to the moon.

Each day four Trans-Canada trains were in motion over the Company's lines in each direction. At 8 A.M. each day, one was west-bound between Cartier and Chapleau, one between Kenora and Winnipeg, one between Medicine Hat and Calgary, and one between North Bend and Vancouver, while at that hour one east-bound was approaching Glacier, one approaching Regina, one east of Fort William and one between Chalk River and Ottawa. Ten complete sets of equipment, of which four were in motion each way every day and one was being cleaned, refitted and turned round at each end were required to maintain the service.

The year's schedule called for 22 changes of engine on every Trans-Canada run from Montreal to Vancouver and two engines for the Toronto-Sudbury connection made by each train. There were 48 engine runs daily for the service. Including these engine-stops, the trains made only 26 stops on their whole run. It is on this steady movement at a uniform speed over long distances and not on high speed that the trains maintained their fast schedules over the transcontinental journey and the elimination of all but essential stops resulted in the smooth running for which it is noted. Owing to the necessity of changing trains crews on such a long run, about 14 crews, or about 84 men, were required for one trip on each train, while 48 sleeping and dining-car employees were required for each trip on one train or nearly 400 men for this branch of the Trans-Canada service. None of the hundreds of employees whose duty also associate them with the Trans-Canada Limited, but who do not travel with it, is included in these figures.

Never let it be remarked as odd that you are in an even temper.

Among the fertilizers basic slag is being applied by farmers in Quebec and the Maritime provinces in larger quantity than for a number of years. The slag used is principally the imported Bessemer slag from Belgium. Some 6000 tons were imported for fall trade in the province of Quebec alone this year, and is costing the farmers about $1 per unit of total unit of phosphoric acid. f.o.b Montreal and Quebec.

Here and There

“Moose are plentiful in the Chapleau, Ont., district, and hunters can secure a good ‘bag’ of deer and bear,” says J. W. McVey. Experienced guides can be obtained and hunters are assured they will get their limit.

“One of the things for which Canada is most to be congratulated is that she has established a system of education that compares favorably with any in the world. Canada is a nation of literates, she has a remarkably small proportion of illiterates,” stated the Right Hon. H. A. L. Fisher, former Minister of Education in the British government, when disembarking at Montreal.

One of the many gifts offered by enthusiastic individuals to the Prince of Wales on his visit, the majority of which he could not for obvious reasons accept, was a package of French-Canadian tobacco grown on a farm at St. Roch l'Achigan, situated near the boundaries of Montcalm and Assumption counties. In a letter from the Alberta ranch the Prince through his secretary thanked the donor for the gift.

A cablegram from London, England, quotes an article in the “Financial News” dealing with the British Empire Exhibition. It stresses the exceptionally fine exhibit staged by Canada and the unquestionable benefit to trade relations it has effected. The article pays a high tribute to the Canadian Pacific Railway exhibit, describing the railway's gorgeously illuminated map of Canada, with its 5,000 incandescent lights as probably the most brilliant specimen of cartography ever seen at the exhibition or elsewhere.

It has been announced that H. J. Logan, M.P. for Cumberland, will accompany the Minister of Trade and Commerce to the West Indies to negotiate a new reciprocal treaty with those islands. The general purpose of the visit is to admit West Indian commodities free in return for Canadian manufacturers receiving similar treatment, the products of the two countries being entirely dissimilar. It is also hoped to build up a direct system of importations through Canadian ports instead of through the United States, by which route a great proportion of West Indian products now come to Canada.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has appointed P. A. Cox, general agent, to be assistant Oriental manager, at Shanghai, and E. F. L. Sturdee, acting general passenger agent for the Orient, to be general passenger agent for the Orient, with headquarters at Hongkong. Leo Solloway, recently appointed Asiatic freight agent, with offices at Montreal, and supervision over Oriental and Australasian traffic via Pacific ports, has the distinction of being the youngest official in the Canadian Pacific Service. He was born in Vancouver, in 1895, and has been in the steamship freight service 14 years.

The winners of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Ontario bungalow camps fishing trophy competitions for 1924 were announced recently. The French River competition resulted in two competitors turning in fish almost identically alike. In this contest a tie was declared. The successful anglers were D. W. E. Hawkins, New York City, and H. H. Champ, Hamilton, Ontario, each entering a small mouth bass weighing exactly 4 pounds. The winning fish at Nipigon River Camp was a 6 pound, 10 ounce trout, caught by William Metzger, Detroit, Michigan. The Devil's Gap (Lake of the Woods) trophy was won by J. A. Furlong, Winnipeg, Manitoba, who entered a muscalunge weighing 20 pounds, 8 ounces.

Editorial Comment

One of the greatest blights of civilization is selfishness, or lack of brotherly co-operation.

The narrow self-centred mind becomes poisoned by a toxin of mistrust, doubt and envy. The toxin insidiously destroys the individual enjoyment of social life, and creating suspicion and mistrust ultimately destroys all hope of success in co-operative effort for the betterment of civilization.

It is clearly portrayed in the following British statement of a prominent clergyman, Rev. R. J. Campbell who says:

The other day I took part in a meeting convened for the purpose of advocating the reduction of armaments and the substitution of arbitration for war. It was a non-party meeting, the principal speakers representing all the prominent political parties of the State.

The finest speeches were undoubtedly made by the most out-and-out opponents of militarism, and they made the deepest impression on the audience chiefly because of the moral passion with which they were charged.

But I noticed that running all through their indictment of war and war-mentality was the assumption that somewhere or other there existed a set of diabolically wicked people whose interests were served by fomenting strife between otherwise peaceable folk, and that in some mysterious way these unscrupulous persons were invested with the power of foreing an unwilling world to fight.

Capitalism, Nationalism, the military caste, the makers of armaments and the owners of newspapers were all jointly and severally credited with the responsibility for setting men to killing each other.

This kind of argument will not do; it is false to the facts. We all enjoy passing on blame and having a scapegoat to belabour; it is soothing to our consciences but mortally harmful.

The plain truth is that we all help to engender the war spirit. War existed before capitalists, nationalities, the military profession, munition factories and journalists were heard of.

At the worst these are only the modern means by which an ancient spirit finds expression.

The real cause of war is selfish passion operating through the group mind.

It is fear, mutual distrust, mass suggestion, national vanity, covetousness, jealousy, and the like which make wars; and these are vices in which we all share. They are our natural egoism socially magnified.

It is impossible to believe that any set of men anywhere is engaged in plotting war for personal and private profit or aggrandisement.

But we are all guilty of it in so far as we allow ourselves to entertain a prejudice or a feeling of antagonism towards a fellow-creature or a class or nation not our own.

What is needed to end war is the same kind of change of thought and feeling which put a stop to witch burning, slavery, and infanticide.

War will cease when it becomes unthinkable. Let us individually do our best to hasten the hour.

OBJECTS OF THE FARMERS UNION

our greatest problem is pool administration.

I regard the relation of a farmers organization to the pool as essentially that of a watch dog guarding the welfare of the masses, preserving democratic control. I might have been persuaded to have overlooked the more important sphere of an interprovincial organization had the U.F.A. been of the same mind.

But not so. Mr. Wood contrary to the teaching of Mr. Sapiro and every notable authority on collective marketing, promptly seized control of both the pool and the U.F.A. It would have been perfectly proper for him to have filled either position, but not both. On this principle, which is one of the fundamentals in preserving democratic control, Mr. Sapiro said:

"I strongly believe that an effort should be made to keep the wheat pool free from political domination by any man who is interested in other types of farm organization.

Lengthening The Useful Period Of Sires

(Experimental Farm Note)

It is a lamentable fact that many sires that have later proven to be valuable breeders have had a limited period of usefulness to their breed due to the fact that they were disposed of before their breeding ability became known. Early disposal is sometimes due to a disinclination to risk the insecurity to life and limb entailed in keeping aged breeding animals around, but more often is due to the gradual impotency, inadvisability of inbreeding and the lack of facilities for keeping too herd sires. Be the causes what they may, the fact remains that, in many cases, better use could be made of many of the outstanding sires in the country that meet with slaughter while still in prime breeding condition.

With most classes of stock, proper care, comfortable quarters, plenty of exercise, and due cautions on the part of the attendant reduce impotency in the animal and risk of attendants being injured by aged sires to a minimum. Also in most classes of stock, the get of the sire matures sufficiently early to enable a fair estimate to be made, through the get, of the breeding ability of the sire before the latter has to be disposed of to avoid inbreeding. Such being the case, it would seem advisable for the breeder to study his breeding results closely and retain as long as he possibly can those sires that show outstanding merit.

Other breeders (where accredited herd regulations will allow) in such a way that sires may be exchanged for a number of years and then be used again in the original herd is one method that could be resorted to on the part of the first owner of a tried and proven sire. Another method that should prove workable is for two parties conveniently situated who have valuable tried sires to exchange services for such of their own animals as are closely related to their own sires.

Following out these suggestions would extend the usefulness of a bull, for instance, from the usual three or four years to seven or eight years.

The greatest possibilities, however, in extending the period of usefulness of proven sires are in getting the new breeder to appreciate the value of these proven sires and to buy them whenever possible in preference to the untried young sire. Instances without number could be quoted where money has been lost and years of breeding have been wasted, so far as improvement of herds and flocks was concerned, through the use of untried sires that have proven misfits.

On the other hand, many good proven sires that have been offered for sale have gone to the slaughter house for want of a buyer. In the interests of the breed and the advancement of breeding generally, every owner of a tried and proven sire should, when he is through with him, endeavour to put him in the hands of some one who can make further use of him. Likewise, anyone looking for a new sire should see that the supply of tried and proven sires is exhausted before purchasing a young unproven one.

This system is followed as between the Central and branch Experimental Farms, and has given excellent results.

A girl who begins by fooling her mother may end by fooling her husband.

"I'm going to prune those apple trees."

"But, Frank, you know I don't care for prunes."

"I now feel that I am at the end of my troubles," said the optimist.

"Which end" said the pessimist.

She: "I think the Smythes are an ideal couple—they think alike about everything."

He: "Yes, but I notice that she always thinks fast!"

"I could dance like this forever," he whispered.

"Oh, I shouldn't say that. You are almost bound to improve."

"How are you getting on with your French maid, Mrs. Gruchie?"

"Oh, fine, me dear. Me and 'Arry's learnin' 'er to talk English as good as we does."

MAGIC MEDICINE

There's a heap o' consolation
In the handclasp of a friend;
It can wipe out desolation.
An' bring heartaches to an end
It can soothe a troubled spirit
Like no moggie in the land;
Heaven? You are pretty near it—
When a good friend grasps your hand.

There's a heap of satisfaction
In a friendly shoulder pat:
It's a simple little action—
But a mighty one at that!
When firm fingers grip your shoulder,
When you sort o' need a brace,
Makes you stronger, braver,
bolder.
An' more fit to run the race!

When you're full o' weary vision,
An' the world is lookin' drear.
There's a heap o' energizin'
In a little pill o' cheer!
When some little frets distress
you.

They put nectar in your cup—
Little phrases like "God bless
you",
An' that other one "Cheer up"

A hobo called at a farm, and the farmer offered him a job and three meals a day. The hobo asked what kind of work it would be. The farmer replied: "Digging potatoes."

The hobo thereupon stretched himself and yawned: "Don't you think," he suggested, "you'd better get the man that planted them? He knows just where they are."

Eliminate The Non-Producing

(Experimental Farm Note)

Probably the greatest hindrance to the profitable keeping of poultry on the ordinary farm is the retention of a lot of fowl that are poor layers, due either to their being too old or of a type to produce meat rather than eggs.

The production of eggs is the end of the poultry business in which most of the profit can be made, so that a heavy egg producing type is the type that is best suited to ordinary farm con-

Generally speaking, the pullet year is the most profitable period of a hen's life. It is advisable, therefore, either to mark the chicks when hatched, using a different mark for each year, or to band the pullets when they are put into winter quarters, so that at culling time the age of the different birds may be seen at a glance and only those that are required for breeding purposes retained after the first year's production.

For the careful breeder the use of the trap-nest is the logical means to cull the flock but the ordinary farmer does not use trap-nests so that reliance must be placed on physical characteristics. The high producer will be found to be of an active disposition, early off the roost in the morning and late to go to roost at night and always busy. Her head will be clear cut, face smooth and free from wrinkles, with bright prominent eyes, skin soft, pliable and of fine texture and a general appearance of health and vigour.

Cull all birds that show a lack of vigour, a sluggish lazy disposition, a coarse rough head with overhanging eyebrows, an inclination to break down behind, or that show heavy deposits of internal fat, as evidenced by a thick skin and hard abdomen that is hard and firm to the touch. In contrast to this the heavy layer will have skin that is fine in texture and the abdomen will be soft and pliable. This last feature is one on which great weight should be placed, but in culling reliance should be placed on a combination of features rather than on any one feature.
